

Description

The investment Analyst/Associate intern will assist with building and supporting ANGIN's investment pipeline and portfolio. The analyst will receive high exposure and responsibility in a small team, and will assist the investment process from sourcing to portfolio management.

Job Description

Source new venture investments (early-stage technology or non-technology startups) including meeting with founders and entrepreneurs, attending relevant conferences and networking events, and calling on new prospects

Support to deeper screening and due diligence

Support on deal negotiation and execution

Support on reporting and business support to our existing portfolio companies

Building network with several stakeholders in the ecosystem (startups, HNWI, VCs, accelerators, coworking space and other key players) to increase ANGIN's outreach

Requirements

Prior Internship work experience would be preferred (finance or entrepreneurship related)

Students preferably from economics, finance or business-related majors accepted

Team player, fast learner and strong proactive personality

Assertive, detail-oriented and critical thinker

Self-motivated, independent and driven to build a strong career profile

Passionate about entrepreneurship and investment

Strong written and verbal communication skills in English

Based in Bali or Jakarta

Minimum 2 months