EDITORIAL

In France, July is marked by two powerful traditions. First, the national holiday on July 14 — Bastille Day — a symbol of liberty, unity, and civic spirit. Second, the arrival of summer, a cherished season when many French families begin their holidays, often heading to the seaside for rest, adventure, and renewal.

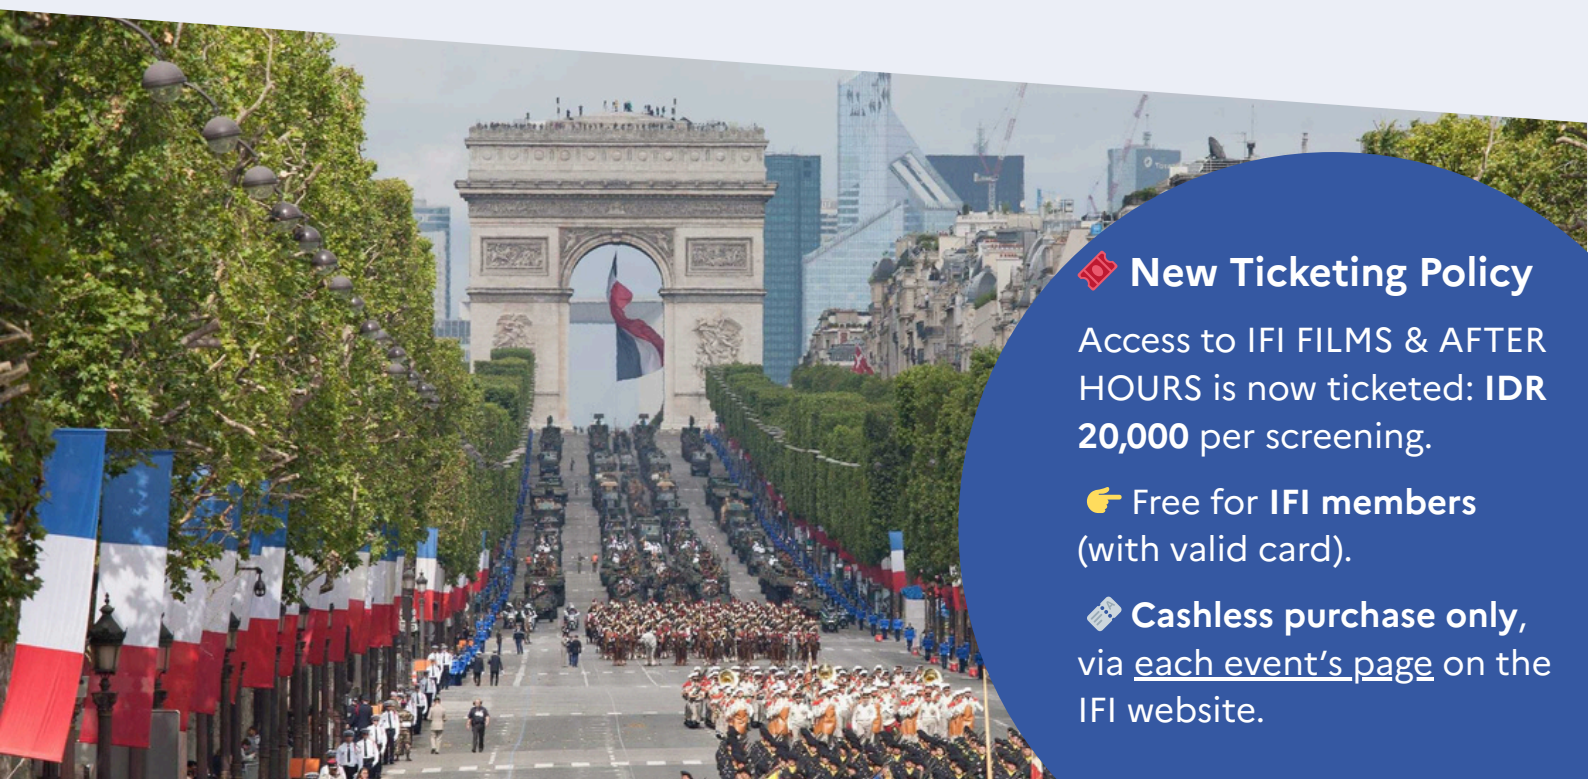

Our July program reflects both.

We begin with portraits of France past and present: De Gaulle, Pour la France, La Bataille de Solferino, and Marinette explore national memory, identity, and the people who shaped them — from generals to athletes, from history to today.

Then comes summer: a time of departure, emotion, and change. À l'abordage and L'Été l'éternité follow young characters on journeys full of love and self-discovery.

For children and families, Le Roi et l'Oiseau offers a poetic escape into a world of imagination — a classic of French animation that continues to enchant all generations.

Finally, our After Hours screening with the Jakarta Cinema Club revisits Au revoir les enfants by Louis Malle — a moving and intimate story of friendship, silence, and loss during World War II. Forty years after its release, it remains one of the most powerful works in French cinema.
